NGSA and CLNG Statement on 2022 State of the Union Address

(Washington, D.C.) -- Dena E. Wiggins, President and CEO of the Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA), and Charlie Riedl, Executive Director of the Center for LNG (CLNG), made the following comments about last night's 2022 State of the Union address by President Joe Biden.

Dena Wiggins, President and CEO of NGSA, said:

"Although President Biden did not specifically name natural gas in his speech last night, natural gas is inherently a part of the international and domestic goals he described. We support the President's desire to strengthen international energy security, cut energy costs for families and grow clean energy production and we are proud that natural gas plays a huge role in making all of these goals a reality. We are sending LNG exports to help Europe, providing an abundant and affordable energy source here at home and making the energy transition possible."

Charlie Riedl, Executive Director, Center for LNG, said:

"We share the Administration's commitment to supporting our allies in energy security and emissions reductions. We are fortunate to have an abundant supply of natural gas in the United States and are well-positioned to continue providing U.S. LNG to our European allies."

Markets Matter: Representing America's Major Producers and Suppliers of Natural Gas Since 1965

The Center for Liquefied Natural Gas (CLNG) advocates for public policies that advance the use of liquefied natural gas (LNG) in the United States, and its export internationally. A committee of the Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA), CLNG represents the full LNG value chain, including all six large-scale LNG export facilities in the United States, shippers, and multinational developers, providing it with unique insight into the ways in which the vast potential of this abundant and versatile fuel can be fully realized.
